Saturday, February 1, 2020, 10:30am – 1:30pm

Located in The Tamarack Lodge

Brought to you by PUCCS and John R. Oishei Children's Hospital

On Saturday, February 1st, PUCCS (Program for Understanding Childhood Concussion and Stroke) and the Kiwanis Level One Trauma Program at John R. Oishei Children's Hospital will be presenting Buffalo Ski Club Members with a Ski Helmet Fitting Clinic. We will be giving out free helmets to those who need one!

Stop by the Tamarack Lodge to see Shannon Schunke, Executive Director for PUCCS; Dr. Renee Reynolds, UB Neurosurgery/Vice President of PUCCS; and Benjamin Kasper, Injury Prevention Coordinator from John R. Oishei Children's Hospital.

Our children's safety when participating in sports is a community responsibility. PUCCS mission is to provide the tools necessary to understand and prevent concussions as an injury in all sports. We use funds, through your donations, to help translate what research shows for those impacted by concussion injuries. This allows us to better understand and develop the clinical tools necessary to help young athletes manage and recover from the effects of concussion and stroke. Our vision is about our educational outreach to help athletes, parents, and coaches understand the risk, identification and management of concussions and its importance in positive outcomes.

We look forward to seeing you!
